Western PA Region Past Presidents

by F.L. Nicholls

Fred Nicholls

I purchased my first antique car in 1963, a 1930 Model "A" Coupe from the family of a young lad who was going to college and needed a newer model car. I joined AACA in 1963 and, as told in another article in the Roundup, joined the Western Pennsylvania Region in 1965. I served on the Board of Directors as Secretary in 1968.

I was President in 1969, then Vice President in 1971 and again served as President in 1972. The year of 1972 was a big year for the Region as we hosted the National Spring Meet at Seven Springs, PA. I remember that Harold Coker was National AACA President that year.

I was really into antique cars, and up to 1972 when I was President, I had owned 10 cars. At the 1972 National Meet my 1948 Lincoln Continental Coupe won a Second Junior, something my 1931 Chevrolet Sedan never achieved, although I had shown it at 3 National Meets. After my time on the Board, I retired to writing articles for the Western Roundup. Ann and I have enjoyed being members of the Region.

1920s House on Wheels

This innovative family had to have fun traveling in their homemade RV. Look at the photo closely and notice the chimney, awnings and brick detailing on the fenders.

1920s Camping

All you needed was a tent, provisions and a sturdy Studebaker. Mother nature provided the rest.

Fort Necessity National Battlefield Visitors Center

After a coffee stop at the Country Pie Shoppe & Old General Store in Donegal, PA we follow PA Scenic Route 381 South to Route 40. Here a thoroughfare of American History comes alive. The Fort Necessity National Battlefield & Visitors Center are part of the U.S. National Park System. At this "Great Meadow" in July of 1754 a twenty two-year-old George Washington surrendered British forces under his command to the French after an overwhelming battle that marked the beginning of the French and Indian War.

The exciting new Fort Necessity Visitors Center offers an outstanding interpretive experience, which rivals anything Disney World has to offer. There is also an accurate recreation of Washington's hastily-made fort.

Car buffs will enjoy the exhibition on the history of U.S. Route 40, "The National Road", which was Washington's vision for a road that would eventually unite the country.

Wild Side & Nemaocolin Woodlands Resort

South of Fort Necessity along Route 40 is our lunch stop at Wild Side. This huge family fun center features a wide variety of entertainment including dozens of video games, pinball machines, a bowling alley and climbing wall. There is even a mountain in the center of the building which showcases some extraordinary examples of wildlife taxidermy. Near the entrance is a large, highly-detailed model railroad exhibit.

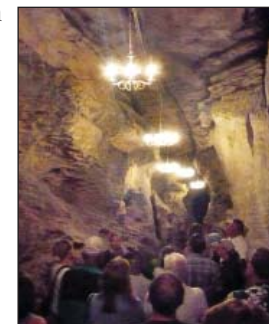

After leaving the Wild Side enjoy a drive through the grounds of the fabulous Nemaocolin Woodlands Resort. Stop and visit resort owner Joe Hardy's collection of classic cars and airplanes. Spot fine art sculptures along the resort's roadways. There's even a drive through zoo.

Laurel Caverns

Traveling north on Route 40 from Nemaocolin Woodlands we motor back along Skyline Drive at the top of the "mountain" to Laurel Caverns. There is a spectacular view from the Visitor Center's porch. But the real treat is a walking underground tour of Pennsylvania's largest cave.

Laurel Caverns is a unique sandstone cave and features formations different from typical limestone caves. Wear good walking shoes with some decent tread on them. The temperature is 55 degrees year round. So you may also want to wear a light jacket in the cave.

Packard Blues

by John Kosko

In this dream John Darrison, dark-haired (but graying), medium-tall, slim, somewhat good-looking, is with his guardian angel, MacKenzie Corey.

“Mac the angel”, or “Angel Mac, or just “Mac”, as this seraph wishes to be called, is all silver: silver hair, thick silver eyebrows, a full but trim silver mustache. He has narrow eyes that twinkle like stars, rather puffy cheeks --- but he is not fat---and a fatherly, soothing voice that, nevertheless, can be tough and firm. He wears, usually, a tailored silver suit over a white shirt and sapphire-blue necktie that has a diamond pin in it. He looks age 60 but has a youthfulness about him; well, he is immortal. He is John’s helper and mentor, John’s Dutch uncle with a velvet fist.

Darrison is usually in designer blue jeans, a blue flannel shirt, and ---sometimes---a black leather jacket.

In this first dream, then, Mac sat in an executive chair at a large desk. John Darrison sat across from him in a plush wing chair. They were in an expensive den of soft light, and shelves of books all around them. Quiet reigned.

Mac the angel said: “So here we are Mister Darrison. You have rejoined the car club, for whatever time you have left, and I sense you harbor a sad affection for the old, long-gone motorcar company called Packard.”

Darrison moved his head with uneasy, frowning eyes. “Uh, yes Angel Mac. Can you---help me experience Packard?”

I have only one book to read about them, the one I bought in 1991, copyright 1978.”

Mac glanced at his own hands on the desk top. He was leaning forward, his eyes variously fixed on John’s. “Ah, yes, the Kimes tome. 16 authors and Beverly Kimes, editor. Indeed, my dear ward, a remarkable history book. I know it well; of course I know about everything well.”

Darrison held out his hands---he was a gesture man. “Mac, could you bring to life some of those Packard automobiles?”

Mac frowned. “I can try.” His face had an air of loss. “So yo want to..honor Packard. One of the all-time great car companies of America.” The angel inhaled a sigh. “It was ---so long ago---they perished...You will ask many things of me, Mister Darrison. You should live in the present.”

“I---long for the past.”

Mac nodded. “As expected. Your club’s other members love the past too.” The seraph sighed again. The two men stared at each other, the avuncular strict and compassionate angel, in human substance; and the wistful 55 year-old Darrison, who ached for youth and a simple era.

“I’ll see what I can do”, Mac said, with a stern look into John’s eyes.

And the dream ends, but the old cars never really die.

On the Road Again

by F.L. Nicholls

I now owned a 1931 Model “A” Roadster in Haverhill, NH. At that time I didn’t know anyone that had a car trailer, but Page’s told me an “A” towed easily. I had a good tow car, a 1955 Buick Century Riviera Coupe Model 66R, with less than 9,000 miles. My father quit driving in 1963 and had given me the car.

On May 19, 1965 I arrived at Page’s Model “A” Garage to bring home my car. I had rented a tow bar, and Page’s put a used bumper on the front, and set up the tow bar on the Buick and the “A”. I left Page’s at noon and arrived in Indiana at 8AM the following day, towing the “A” 600 miles in 20 hours.

With my new prize I attended several local shows, always winning First Place. One day I saw an ad about a show in Somerset, PA sponsored by an AACA region, called “Western Pennsylvania”. Ann and I thought this sounded great. We got a motel in Somerset for Saturday evening. On a nice day we left Indiana and drove the Ford to Somerset. The show was on a football field and that night the Award Banquet was in the Social Hall of a Catholic Church. We knew no one, and we sat with a group from West Virginia.

The awards were given out after a great dinner. Finally, my Class was called, Third, Second, and I was disappointed, I recall. Then, they called First and my Roadster had won. WOW. At a big Meet like this, and at an Award Banquet. I was elated. Then some more awards, and then, BEST OF SHOW. I couldn’t believe it when a big man called my name. This made my day.

The next morning we joined a Breakfast Run to Seven Springs. We really enjoyed the resort, and after breakfast, the owner gave out several trophies, and my “A” received one. Then this big man asked me to join the Western Region. He signed the application and gave it to me and asked Ann and me to attend their next meeting.

That meeting was in a small restaurant on Route 30 next to the road that goes back to the Wiricks. That was about 45 years ago, and that’s a long time.

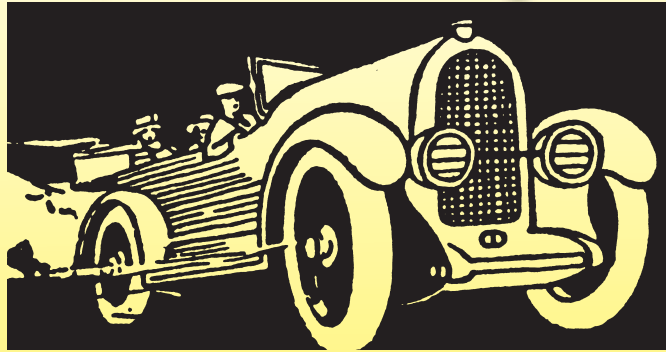

Thanks to Paul Bell for inviting us; it’s been GREAT.

Name That Car..

by Mark Jackson

Through dedicated persistence Ed and Nancy Vrable correctly guessed the owner of the classic brass era car which appeared in the February Round-up as Western PA Region member Morris Kunkle. They also deducted that the car is a 1910 Packard.

Congratulations Ed and Nancy! You win the Hostess Cupcakes!

Here's a cute photo from my wife Jill Jackson's family album. The little girl on the fender is her mother, Melissa, held lovingly by her father, Richard Oat. Can you NAME THAT CAR?

Melissa was born the same year as Elvis Presley. So that may give you an idea of the era.

Her father was true to this car's marquee his entire life. (Although he did stray once when a Packard bug bit him.)

Contact me via email at rpmguy2002@yahoo.com or call 724-832-9074 with your guess on the car's year and make. The first two correct guesses win a box of Zingers (chocolate or strawberry - your choice).

Guess Who...

by Susan Eger

Ron Caruso correctly guessed the identity of the "mystery club member" in February's issue. It was no other than our Bill Stump. Bill says that he worked for Westinghouse for 46 years, starting out at age 19.

In the photo, Bill is seen loading box cars with porcelain parts, earning the handsome rate of 28 cents per hour!

Ron has requested that instead of the advertised prize of Hostess cupcakes, he would prefer to receive a box of Mallo Cups.
